A Year to Remember

From the chaos and emotional high of our first capital campaign and largest land acquisition yet, to the chaos and fear of a massive wildfire, we won't soon forget 2003. Within weeks of completing the purchase of the 1,240 acre Metolius Preserve (and our Forest Fire Plan) Central Oregon's biggest fire in years swept to within a stones throw of the new Preserve and the community of Camp Sherman.

Fortunately, Mother Nature (with help from a large contingent of dedicated firefighters) spared the Metolius River and Camp Sherman. Although it's certain that much of the Metolius Basin will look far different for many years to come, this landscape evolved with fire and many wildlife species will actually benefit from the fire. So in addition to thanking all those generous individuals who made the Metolius Preserve a reality, our sincere thanks also go out to the hard working fire crews, whose effort helped spare the Metolius Basin from a more catastrophic fate. Special thanks go to the Oregon Department of Forestry, which helped the Land Trust staff develop a Fire Plan for the Metolius Preserve and then implemented it so effectively that the Preserve experienced only a small, healthy ground fire.

With the creation of the Metolius Preserve and the B&B Fire capturing the majority of the attention, we shouldn't forget the many other things that took place in 2003. In addition to the Metolius Preserve, the Land Trust signed a letter of intent to acquire and hold a conservation easement on 550 acres along the Crooked River. Willow plantings, upland restoration and planning for an anticipated re-meandering of Squaw Creek kept us busy at Camp Polk Meadow, along with noxious weed removal at all of our Preserves.

Looking ahead the Land Trust will focus its conservation efforts on three programs: Back to Home Waters, Community Preserves and Working Landscapes. This means seizing an unprecedented opportunity to restore the legendary fisheries of the Upper Basin and benefiting a wide range of wildlife species dependent on stream and river corridors, working with local communities to conserve a special place near them that can provide the opportunity for students and families to get their hands dirty and learn more about the landscape they call home, as well as working with local ranchers, farmers and woodland owners to conserve the productive capacity of their land and the habitat their land provides to wildlife.

Of course, all of this depends upon the willingness of private landowners to work with the Land Trust and the continued generosity of our supporters. We see incredible opportunities in 2004 and the years to come, opportunities that are hard to convey in the short space available. For that reason, we hope you'll make the effort to tour a Preserve, to see, experience and more fully appreciate the value of your investment and legacy it's creating for our children.
