2022 ANNUAL REPORT

Conserving and caring for the lands and waters that sustain Central Oregon.
As I look back on 2022, I recall the moment I first stepped foot on what is now Paulina Creek Preserve. It was a cold, wintery, blue sky day with an incredible view of Paulina Peak in the background of burbling Paulina Creek. The Land Trust already had big plans for 2022 and the opportunity to conserve this amazing place was just a dream.

Fortunately, over the course of the year, our community pulled together to make Paulina Creek Preserve a reality! It is because of you, our dedicated supporters, volunteers, and donors that we are able to conserve, care for, and connect the community to the lands entrusted to us, while also conserving new places like Paulina Creek Preserve.

Last year, thanks to you we restored meadows and planted thousands of native plants. Thanks to you we restored McKay Creek at Ochoco Preserve creating miles of new stream habitat. Thanks to you we made our properties healthier by restoring juniper and pine forests. Thanks to you we worked with local farmers and ranchers to conserve their lands for future generations.

Looking ahead, I believe the Land Trust has the opportunity to make history. We have grown our organization to continue to lead innovative restoration projects, conserve new lands, apply new approaches to caring for our lands, and engage more partners, communities, and supporters than ever. In 2023, we hope you’ll join us and learn more as we continue our efforts to conserve Skyline Forest, restore more meadows, streams, and forests at our Preserves, and connect more people with these amazing places we all love.

I believe the future of the Land Trust will be bright, and I know that it will take all of us working together to build a future where conservation and community care come together to protect, heal, and sustain the natural world around us. This year I ask you to help us widen the circle and bring our communities together to make our collective goals for the future of Central Oregon a reality. Let’s make history together!

With gratitude,

Rika Ayotte
